WHAT WILL YOU TAKE FOR YOURSELF.

It is said that every man has his price. Young man, have you yours? Will anything at all buy you? Will you even sell yourself by a little slander, by evading the truth to gain somebody's opinion, or to accomplish some desired end? Will you even so far forget yourself, your manhood, your friends, your position in society, your best interests, as to thus sell yourself for the favor of another?

Doubtless you now spurn the thought and yet have you not often done so? Be careful, be honest in reply. Answer only as the little voice within prompts. Remember that it is of daily occurrence with mankind. Others, who think they are just as good, just as strong in character, who value themselves just as highly as you, are daily selling themselves.

Will you prove yourself a man, and talk and act, and live like a man? Will you even countenance by your approval, by your influence, by your patronage, that which in your heart you know to be wrong for fear of giving offence, for fear of losing somebody's favor, or subjecting yourself to somebody's cutting jest? If surrounded by the jovial associates of former days, where the convival bottle is freely passed, and you are urged to partake of an extra glass, can you, even if there be none present to expose you to those whom you know think better things of you say "No?" Can you everywhere, under all circumstances of temptation, say "No?" If you can, then indeed you do possess true nobility of soul, then indeed may your friends safely lean upon you and feel proud of you.

Even those whose solicitations to evil you have refused to accept will respect and love you more because you are proving yourself a man. They who sustain such a character are building upon a rock, and will find themselves surrounded by friends comprising the best and nobles of mankind. All love because they know they can trust you. Let your price be above earthly treasure, for it will then be so. You will thus gain not only nobility of character and soul, but the respect and love of all the pure and good.

SWALLOWING FIFTEEN COWS.

"Swallowed fifteen cows!" said Bertie in astonishment, looking up from her slate. Her ears had caught the words in a conversation that was going on in the room.

"Yes," answered her brother George, "he drank them all up."

"Drank fifteen cows! I don't believe it!" answered the little maiden, firmly.

"He sold them and bought whiskey and beer with the money," explained Aunt Katy.

"Oh, oh! that was it. I see now. Well, it is funny."

"No, not funny, dear, but sad," said Aunt Katy. "The man had a wife and two little children, and he sold the milk from the fifteen cows and bought them food and clothing. But now having swallowed the cows, as we were saying, his wife and children go hungry and cold, and he, a poor miserable drunkard, is in the almshouse. Isn't it dreadful to think of?"

"You'll never catch me drinking up fifteen cows, nor one either," spoke out George, very positively.

"I don't know as to that," said Aunt Kate. "The man we were talking about was once a boy like you, with a healthy taste for food and clear cold water. As to ever swallowing a cow, much more fifteen cows, such a thing never entered his head. But you see what he came to at last. How was it? He began by taking a glass of ale or beer, or a little wine at parties, now and then. This corrupted his pure tastes and gave him an unnatural thirst, which only strong drink would satisfy. From ale and beer he went to whiskey, rum and brandy; and the more and oftener he drank, the more his thirst increased, until he became a poor, miserable drunkard. So you see, George, that no boy can tell what he may come to. Maybe, instead of swallowing fifteen cows, you will get down, one of these days, after you become a man, forty or fifty, and a house and lot into the bargain."

"Now, aunty, that is too bad!" exclaimed George. "You know I won't."

"So hundreds and thousands of little boys might once have said, who, now that they have grown to be men, are drunkards. There is only one way of safety."

"What is that, aunty?" asked the boy, looking up with serious eyes.

"It is the way of total abstinence, as we call it—the only way of safety for boys or men. If you never drink a drop of intoxicating liquor you will never be a drunkard. If you depart from this rule no man can say to how low a depth of wretchedness and degradation you may fall. The worst drunkard in the land was once a pure and innocent boy."

"Touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing," said Aunt Kate, "and all will be well with you. But indulge ever so little in drinking as you grow to manhood, and none can tell into what a great deep of hopeless ruin you may fall."—Uncle Herbert, in Children's Hour.

GOOD BOY WANTED.

As I was walking down Walnut street last week, I saw a large card hanging out at the door of a shop, on which was painted in great black letters the words, "Good Boy Wanted."

Most of the shopkeers content themselves with saying "Boy Wanted," in such cases; but this man was particular about the kind of boy he took into his store.

"Well," said I to myself, "I wonder if there are not a good many other people who might hang out the same sign."

There is my friend, Mr. Wholesale. He advertised for a boy, and had to turn him off in a week, because he was so saucy. Then he tried another, and he was a regular loafer, and would stop and play marbles in the street, when he was sent on errands. Besides he took the silly notion that it would be a great thing for him to learn to smoke and chew tobacco, and he actually stole money to buy the filthy stuff. So off he went, and Mr. Wholesale is still in want of a boy—a good boy wanted.

There are some of my neighbors who live in beautiful marble houses and with all their wealth they feel poor sometimes, because they have no little children to make their beautiful homes bright and happy. Some of them are talking of adopting a child, and there are some more good boys wanted.

There is a lady living down in —— Street, whose heart was made very sorry by the bad habits of her son. He is a bright little fellow, but wilful and disobedient, and sometimes cruel to the smaller boys. Once in awhile he swears, and that almost breaks his mother's heart; and if you could hear her prayers for her wayward son, you would see what God sees, that the meaning of that poor mother's prayer is, "good boy wanted."

Some good boys are wanted in all the city schools to set an example to those rude little rascals who throw stones and call names, and shout to people going along the street, and who never have their lessons well learned.—Young Folks.

THE CUBAN LEADER.

Cespedes, the leader of the Cuban revolution, is thus described by an American gentleman who has returned from the Island:

"He is a man about forty-five years of age; is a middling stout gentleman, of agreeable temper, and is quite mild mannered. His complexion is fair, though of dark brown hair and eyrs. There is no pretence about him. He is no talker, yet when he speaks it is to the purpose. He reads English well, and speaks it, though not fluently. At first view one would take him for a plain, quiet, unpretending gentleman; but on acquaintance he discovers sagacity and a profound knowledge of men and of the world. It may be said that he is a man of eminently practical ideas. He is unmoved at reverses, and has a high, undoubting confidence in the success of the revolution. There is no gentleman more amiable than he, and one more beloved by everybody. Cespedes is a large property owner; was at the opening of the war the first lawer, at the Bayamo bar, and has been eminently successful in all his efforts and undertakings. He can endure much, for his physique is well adapted to labor, either mental or physical. Perhaps he would weigh 150 pounds.

TOO BUSY TO FREEZE.

I was spending the winter at Farmer C——'s. Day after day, I observed the patient herd wending their way through the huge snow banks, but always in the same direction. At length, curiosity led me to follow the well worn path, until I came to a large trough fed by a tiny stream from above. The thermometer was below zero; yet here was open water free for man or beast.

"Do your cattle always find water at yonder spring?" I asked upon my return.

"Oh, yes!" said he. "That never fails, summer or winter."

"Does it never freeze?" I asked.

"Never!" was the reply. "I can trust that little fellow," said he laughing. "He's too busy to freeze."

To the school which I taught in this place came a poor boy, more thinly clad than others; yet he never seemed cold. Upon a rough sled he drew a crippled sister, often wrapped in an old coat which, evidently, belonged to the boy himself.

"How do you manage to keep warm this cold morning?" I asked, as Willie, after depositing his little sister in a warm corner, went directly to his seat, glowing with health and exertion.

"I have my sister to take care of," said he; "and that keeps me stirring."

Warm, loving hearts, and cheerful activity in ways of usefulness, will often be found an excellent defence against the cold.

FUN AT HOME.

Don't be afraid of a little fun at home, good people. Don't shut up your house lest the sun should fade your carpets; and your hearts, lest a hearty laugh should shake down some of the musty old cobwebs there. If you want to ruin your sons, let them think that all mirth and social enjoyment must be left on the threshold without, when they come home at night.

When once a home is regarded as only a place to eat, drink, and sleep in, the work is begun that ends in gambling houses and reckless degradation. Young people must have fun and relaxation somewhere; if they do not find it at their own hearthstones, it will be sought in other and less profitable places.

Therefore, let the fire burn brightly at night, and make the home nest delightful with all those little arts that parents so perfectly understand. Don't repress the buoyant spirits of your children; half an hour of merriment around the lamp and firelight of home blots out the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day, and the safeguard they can take with them into the world is the unseen influence of a bright little domestic sanctum.—Lit. Press,

A CURIOUS FACT.

A lady correspondent remits the following: "A few nights since, upon retirement to rest, the gas being out and the room quite dark, the writer's attention was directed to her foot, which was illumined by light which upon examination was found to be phosphorescent, and proceeded from the upper side of the fourth toe of the right foot. Upon rubbing it with the hand the light increased and followed up the foot, the fumes filling the room with a disagreeable odor. This lasted some time, when the foot was immersed in a basin of water, hoping to quench the light, but to no purpose, for it continued beneath the surface of the water, the fumes rising above. The foot was taken out and wiped dry, but the light still remained. A second immersion of the foot followed and soap applied—with the same results. No more experiments were tried, and after a time it gradually faded and disappeared. The time occupied by this phenomena was about three quarters of an hour. The lady's husband substantiates the above facts, as he also witnessed them. Will some one please explain the above, as the emitting of phosphorus from a live body is new to the writer.—Boston Transcript.

A lawyer once came into court drunk; when the judge said to him, "Sir, I am sorry to see you in a situation which is a disgrace to yourself and family, the court, and the profession to which you belong." The reproof elicited the following colloquy: "Did your honor speak to me?" "I did, sir: I said, sir, in my opinion, you disgrace yourself and family, the court, and the profession by your course of conduct." "May i-i-it please your honor; I have been an attorney i-i-in this court for fifteen years; and permit me to say that this is the first correct opinion I ever knew you to give!"

The papers inform us that Dr. Hawkins the President of the Raleigh and Gaston Road, has rented the North Carolina Rail Road for twenty years, at six per cent per annum upon the capital stock, subject to the approval of the stockholders at a special meeting to be held in Raleigh on the 11th of November. We are not prepared to say whether this is a wise or unwise movement. The stockholders must judge for themselves.

A MEETING OF THE BORDER FARMERS IN DANVILLE.

At a meeting of the farmers of North Carolina and Virginia, Thursday night in Danville, it was our fortune to be present. We gleaned points and opinions from very prominent farmers that will be of interest and importance to our country subscribers.

SOWING WHEAT.

It was the custom of C. B. Luck—a prominent farmer in Caswell—to plow his land from 6 to 8 inches—level with a harrow—sow his wheat and harrow it in. Lap the harrow to have it thoroughly harrowed and if possible have it always rolled. He was dead down against plowing the wheat in, as a portion of wheat plowed in never came up—was lost.

Col. Millner of Pittsylvania, (Va.) only plowed from 4 to 6 inches, but agreed with Mr. Luck, in the balance—except he believed that the wheat should always be plowed in with the shovel plow.

TO AVOID SMUT.

His wheat had never had smut in it since 1850 because he had always soaked his seed wheat in bluestone before he sowed it; 1 ounce of blue stone to the bushel of wheat to stay in soak 12 hours.

FEEDING HOGS.

Mr. Luck raises the finest and fattest hogs. He cooks all the food he feeds with and gives it to his hogs when it is hot. For this purpose he has a large portable boiler that he keeps near the pen. He keeps charcoal in the fattening pen and puts salt and ashes in the slop. "Have you ever had a case of cholera among your hogs, Mr. Luck?"—"Yes—I think so—am not certain. The cholera was raging with the hogs about me and I had a fine chester sow that got sick and refused to eat anything. I give her 2 raw eggs and drenched her with a coffee cup of sweet oil. She got well. But whether this cured her I can't say."

TURNIPS AND FERTILIZERS.

Mr. Read of Danville; was in favor of awarding premiums on the best conducted farms. And he thought we ought to experiment and find out which crop was best suited for practical purposes to our soil and latitude. He did not believe the soil adapted to root crops; was not good for the turnip. Peruvian Guano would not do for the turnip. Barn yard and stable manure and nitric potash (or Saltpetre) was the manure for it. Though for other purposes he considered Peruvian Guano the best fertilizer.

Capt. McDaniel of Danville differed with Mr. Read as to fertilizers. He denounced the Peruvian Guano. The principle in it is an exhauster. It will decompose. If you mix ashes with it, it will nearly knock you down. Showing that the Ammonia escapes. He was in favor of Sulphate of Lime as a fertilizer.

THE WEEDS.

There was a lesson for the farmer in the weeds. Wherver you find the Jamestown weed there you'll find nitric of potash. Whereever you see a bunch of clover or a weed growing—don't turn your old cow on it to eat it up; let it grow and shade the land and when you plow your land plow the weeds under and then put in the wheat. A crop of weeds is worth a hundred dollars to the farmer and still he sends off a thousand miles and pays out his money for Peruvian Guano.

BIG POTATOES.

Mr. Uptegraff, who is one of the most successful raisers of the Irish potato to be found in Pittsylvania county, made a statement of his crop. On an acre of ground, not far from the Fair Grounds he raised 475 bushels and some of these would weigh a pound and a half. Several questions were asked him as to his modus operandi and he gave the following plan. He clovered the ground and when 8 or 10 inches of clover, then cut it and plowed the short growth under. It was owing to the size of the potato as to how many he would plant. Medium size he would plant 8 bushels to the acre. Large with few eyes he would plant 12 bushels to the acre. He cut the potato—planted in drills—elevated a little—plowed 10 to 12 inches. He gave the potato a slight dressing and covered up between with leaves and straw some six or eight inches. Then he would "let it go."

FIRE IN DANVILLE—The grand finale of the Danville, (Va.,) Fair, was a destructive fire that broke out about 3 o'clock Saturday morning in W. F. Lintz's Jewelry Store on the corner of Market Square, which resulted in the loss of the building and nearly his entire stock, estimated at $3 300. The fire communicated to the adjoining store of J. W. Lawson and the millinery establishment of Mrs. Wildman, laying them both in ashes. Lawson was adequately insured—Mrs. Wildman saved her stock but lost $300 in cash, an amount, however, which the generous inhabitants of Danville raised immediately and tendered the fair loser. The fire was probably the work of an incendiary, as four efforts had previously been made to burn the building which originated the fire. Some think it took fire from a lamp left burning in the Store, but this is problematical, as the lamp was in the front of the building and the fire broke out in the rear.

At a Regular Convocation of Lafayette Chapter No. 11 R. A. M. held 14th October 1869, the following Officers were elected.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

THE Advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks, by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, Consumption—is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c. The object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try the remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

Parties wishing the prescription, will please address,

BORDER FAIR AT DANVILLE.

The first and second days was beautiful weather.

Salem N. C. sent some beautiful embroidery.

There was a large hog from Ruffin of 720 pounds.

Maj. Sutherlin had a Chester hog there that was 7 feet from tip to tip and weighed 600 pounds.

Charles Moseley of Halifax had a cow there that was 4 years old and would give 5 gallons of milk a day. He asked $100 for her.

Capt. Morgan Smith of Person county had a blooded grandam and her brood of young and beautiful stock.

There were 24 chickens—some of them Brahmas as white as wool and near the size of turkeys.

Billy Mitchell—an old negro—had a "rogue's gun" that he invented to put in his own barn. It was a right shrewd thing. Made like a rat trap with a trigger fastened to a string that is tied to the barn door. As the trap falls it strikes a match against some sand paper in front and lights the powder laid in some channels like those in a cider press which is conducted to the tube of the loaded gun.

Several young ladies of Danville shot with the pistol at a target. They shot well. Too well. They might take it into their pretty heads to carry "weapons" for a fellow.

The first day was begun by a short address from Maj. Sutherlin of Danville. There were no conveniences for reporting, and at "long taw" we dotted down a few waif paragraphs that we caught in the air. He gave the following advice.

HOW TO SELL YOUR LANDS.

Your lands will never sell for anything till you have good county roads. The railroad may be considered of vast importance to a country, but it is not to be compared with the importance to the farmer of having good county roads over which he can haul his produce with safety and facility.

THE PRESENT CUSTOM.

It is the fashion with nine out of ten of you when asked what you make on your farms to answer, "nothing." Now do you think were you to go into a strange country for the purpose of looking out a place, and the farmers there were to tell you that they made "nothing" on their farms, I ask you would you feel disposed to buy land in that country?

HOW TO GO TO WORK.

There is a wide field open for improvement in the cultivation of tobacco. For 100 miles square we have the finest land for tobacco the world ever saw. The farmer must study how to improve his tobacco. To see how it is that he only gets 8 or 10 dollars a hundred for his tobacco and his neighbor gets 30 and 40 dollars for his; and that too when they both have the same soil, the same strength in labor, and the same facilities for making the crop. He must have the tobacco made and he himself must superintend it and see to the cutting and housing and curing of it.

SMALL FARMS.

After awhile the land in this country will be cut up into small farms, and it will be greatly to the advantage of the farmer, for then he would cultivate just what he could take care of.

In conclusion Maj. Sutherlin urged them not to let their interest lag in the Border Fair. For if ever it should be given up every branch of Industry in the State would be injured by it.

The second day of the fair was honored by the presence of Governor Walker of Virginia. He is a tall man, of a good figure, gray eyes, short even nose, lead colored hair neatly trimmed, and a short heavy black moustache over a pleasant mouth. He walks with a swagger and knows he is handsome. The Governor made a short speech and we took it; but have only room to give that portion which we considered the most "pointy"

HOME TRADE.

Fellow citizens, an occasion like this is one of the deepest interest, when the bone and sinew of the land have gathered to compare ideas and exhibit the results of labor. Why the young man who will quit his plow under the pure air of heaven and leave that plow to live amid the noxious vapors of the great cities—that man, fellow citizens mistakes the mission of his life. New York is but a boiling caldron of the vices of humanity. And were it not for the great influx of foreign population, New York would become a barren desolation. What we need is honest and intelligent labor. And it is the duty of the young men to stay at home and labor.

HIS CONCLUSION.

Let next year see twice the number of people here that are here to-day. It is the only way you have by which your homes can once again be built up. I fondly anticipate before my term expires to see Virginia more prosperous and wealthy than she has been for many years. We are just about starting on a new era. Our morning star glitters full of life and joy. I never saw men more in earnest. Get away with your national politics! We of Virginia are looking to our own welfare. I am not well this morning, fellow citizens, but I am thankful to you for the honor done me, and I pledge you this: I will be with you next year and I want to see the man here who shall dare say I've said anything untrue about our future prosperity.

A. S. BUFORD,

The energetic president of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, was loudly called for, and responded in a short speech full of the energy and vim of the man. He said that for the last few years he had been in the line of action and had done very little talking. His sympathies were with this people; had lived among them and to them owed a great deal for what he was. That he told a friend from afar to-day that, if they had nothing else to show him, he could show him a people—men and women, whose every visage has an avouchment of integrity and intelligence. Action was what the people needed. The Dan River land was unrivalled in all the elements that make a country grand, glorious, and happy. The country had made the people; now it was the duty of the people to make the country. Mr. Buford made a pleasing allusion to North Carolina, a decency that was neglected by the other speakers.

THE TOURNAMENT.

The tournament came off Friday—the last day. About the time the riding began, a heavy rain set in. But still they rode. The writer had a new hat on and with his hands in his pockets was a shivering and forlorn spectator of 3 and 30 young men punching at a small ring. The women were all caught in the rain. Some of the married ones had out every child they had. The poor little things! A small man who was trying to raise an umbrella over a very fat woman—his "interesting flock"—was heard to swear that he told his wife before they come it was going to rain but "confound it, she would come!" A love-sick youth who had packed a carriage with ladies had just taken his seat outside with the driver when a voice from the crowd sung out "I say, driver, throw that bucket of water from under that man or he'll get wet!" The cheerless youth was then soaking his broadcloth in two inch water on the cushion. Ned Pace of Halifax took the ring—of course. And he'll do so again. He crowned Miss Eleanor Robinson of Danville.

INCIDENTS.

There was a plenty of the "bend" among a few of the ladies.

An old countryman sat on Craghead street by a show canvass all of the first day "waiting for the thing to open." He thought it was the Fair.

From our own correspondent.

A heavy frost on the 14th.—the first of the season worthy the name.

TOBACCO.

Industrious and sensible people have cut their tobacco. The leaf has not cured well this season. Not one barn in ten of the coal cured is of a respectable hue.

ACCIDENT.

A negro boy got his hand crushed the other day in a sorghum mill. Amputation was necessary, and his hand was cut off by Drs. Booth and Speed.

A RATTLESNAKE KILLED.

A negro boy living on the land of W. D. Lunsford of Flat River heard a considerable cackling recently in his hen house in the day time, and on reconnoitering found a large rattlesnake after the chickens. It had 8 rattles and 3 buttons.

PROGRESS.

A. Mangum & Co. are finishing off a large new building at their old stand ready for the fall stock.

County News.

Two negro men were found hanging dead about 9 miles from here last week. On their backs was placarded, "For barn burning and threats."

William Duskin—an old citizen of this county—is dead.

John Dollar of this county died on the 14th. He leaves a widow and six children.

A Curious Fact.

Alfred Jones—a colored man in Milton—owned a sow that would in a short while have given birth to a litter of pigs. He cut her tail off and she bled to death.

A Horrible Outrage.

We hardly know how to keep up with these times. A horrible outrage is now related us as having been perpetrated by a negro upon the person of a young white girl in Chatham county, week before last. As told to us, we can but sicken at the black villainy of the offence and shudder to think of the awful punishment that followed. If there be in the account we give any incorrectness, we hope to be informed, and we will be quick in placing it before our readers. It was told us as follows: The young white girl had been over to a neighbor's—about 3 miles off—and was returning home when intercepted in the road by a negro man who dragged her into the woods. He carried out his hellish purpose and tied her to a tree. There he kept her all the night. The next day he brought her something to eat. He told her he would be back at night. But in the evening her friends who were on the hunt, found her and she told them what the negro had said. They placed a guard in ambush and caught him when he came. They asked the girl what they should do with him, and she said "skin him alive." And they skinned him.

TOWN ORDINANCE.

SECTION 44. If any licensed tavern keeper who has been recommended by the Board of Commissioners shall retail spirituous liquors within the corporation, shall open his house after 12 o'clock Saturday night or on Sunday night and shall sell or give away any spirituous liquors without the person so applying for the same shall have a written permission from the Magistrate of Police—and in the absence of the Magistrate of Police—any two of the Commissioners, may give the order. In no case is the order to be given except in cases of sickness. And in no case shall any person be recommended by the Board to retail spirits in the corporation for the town of Hillsboro, who don't respect this ordinance and has been in the habit of violating the same. And it shall be the duty of the Magistrate of Police on information of any person or persons, going in or coming out of any licensed tavern on the Sabbath when they are suspected of getting spirits, to issue his warrant against the vender or proprietor and summons any person or persons he may think fit to give evidence against the tavern keeper. And on conviction he shall pay a fine not exceeding ten dollars nor less than two and costs. To be enforced and in effect from and after its ratification on the 2nd of Oct. 1869.

Farm Yard Scraps.

The peanut trade of North Carolina amounts to more than the cotton trade in value.

Horace Greely has purchased some land in New Jersey, and will plant sixty acres of it with cranberries.

If persons about to wash new calico, especially black, will first soak it in salt and water, it will prevent it from fading.

Meal of peas, wheat, and corn will make the richest milk, and of a yellow color. Meal of peas and wheat bran will make excellent feed.

When horse stables are not properly ventilated and lighted it is an excellent plan to make a small window where each horse may thrust out his nose when he is not eating, and breathe pure air.

Cut a piece of lean, juicy beef in small pieces, put them into a wide mouthed bottle and cork tight. Set the bottle in a kettle of cold water, and boil it for an hour and a half. Season with salt.

FARMER'S PUDDING.—Mix a smooth batter in these proportions: One cup of flour, one of milk, one egg, a trifle of salt. Bake half an hour in a quick oven. Serve with sweetened cream or pudding sauce.

G. W. Howe, Mt. Vision, N. Y., assures the New York Farmers' Club that he has not known the following prescription to fail of curing the bots, in a single case, for over thirty years: One pint of lard, a little above milk warm, poured down a horse.

Every housekeeper ought to know that the action of the vinegar on the brass is such as to poison the pickles to a certain extent. I never buy or eat a very green looking pickle, for fear it has been scalded in brass. I never even allow sweet cider to be boiled down in brass; porcelain, or even tin, is better.

MANURING TREES.—A safe guide is to watch the trees themselves. If they grow vigorously, with shoots of over two feet in length, with no care, then they need little attention; but if only a foot or less, the owner may settle his mind that he must apply both manure and cultivation to save his trees. If the trees grow annually from one to two feet or more, they are doing well.

Take a half cup of rice, two quarts of rich milk, (sweet cream improves it,) a trifle of salt; sweeten and flavor to the taste; bake three or four hours, stirring, often till nearly done. When done the rice should be soft, but not dry.

When cold, the rice will be surrounded with a rich sauce, resembling cream, and as good. Eat cold. It is better than any hot rice pudding made with eggs.

POTATO PIE.—Peel and slice potatoes very thin. Place a layer in a pudding dish, sprinkle over it chopped onion, pepper and salt. Cut slices of cold roast lamb, mutton, beef or veal, and place on the potatoes, and so on till the dish is filled. Now turn in the gravy left of the roast; that wanting use water. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in bits over the top. Catsup may be added—three table spoonfuls. Two or three hard boiled eggs sliced up, improves it. Cover with pastry, or for a plainer dish, insert a pie-dish over it, and bake one hour. This is a Cornish dish, and where onions are disliked, turnips are added. A small can of tomatoes would improve it.

Editors ought to be able to live cheap. They get "bured" for nothing.

There is a phrenologist in London who can tell the contents of a barrel by examining its head.

It is a great waste of raw material to put ten dollar's worth of beaver on ten cents worth of brains.

An editor out west says he is so short sighted that he frequently rubs out with his nose what he writes with a pencil!

That's the last attempt to introduce cotton into Turkey, said a wag, on seeing an old gobbler trying to swallow a cotton string.

"It is curious," said an old gentleman to his friend, "that a watch should be perfectly dry when it has a running spring inside."

When Horace Greely was asked about his late narrow escape from death, at Long Branch, he curtly replied, "Ask the horse; I didn't run away."

A yankee editor says; "The march of civilization is onward—onward—like the slow but intrepid trod of a jackass towards a peck of oats!"

Dr. T. C. Pittsfield of Cincinnatti has a large sign, the letters upon which are composed entirely of corns and bunions extracted from the human feet.

Josh Billings says: "Whenever I find a real handsome woman engaged in wimmin's rights bizzness, then I am going to take my hat under my arm and jine the procession."

A Minnesota paper has a delicate way of announcing a birth: "Senator Gilman of St. Cloud had a female relative arrive at his house last night whom Mr. Gilman was delighted to see. Mrs. Gilman was at home.

"There, John, that's twice you've come home and forgot the lard." "Well, if I have'nt mam it's a fact. It wur" so doggone greasy it slipped my mind."

My man, you don't seem to sweat much?

No, master, ain't gittin swettin wages.

What makes your eyes so red, son?

Nuthen. Only Bill Terry you see—he give me this marvil of I'd jest stand squar up and let him fling ashes in 'em without never winking nor blinking. Could you 'a done it, pap?

GRAVES' NEW

PRICE'S LOT

DANVILLE, VA.

WE take pleasure in informing our friends that we have completed our which, for convenience of situation, construction and its fine Sky-light cannot be excelled in this Market.

We have an Excellent Wagon-Yard, where your stock will be perfectly secure.

We have also a good house for our customers to sleep in.

We have associated with us, Mr. Wm. T. Law, so long and favorably known to the planters around Danville, as to need no recommendation.

We take pleasure in returning our thanks to our friends for the very liberal support we have received, and hope by prompt personal attention to our business, to continue to merit and receive the patronage of our friends and the public,

TO THOSE SUFFERING WITH PULMONARY DISEASE.

DR. THOMAS H. MILES, continues to treat Thoracic diseases by Topical Medication, or Catheterism of the air passages, conjoined with appropriate general remedies, as practiced by the late Prof. Green, of New York. The success attending this method of treating diseases of the lungs, is unparralleled, and the feasibility of the operation generally conceded. This treatment is almost a specific Bronchitis, Laryngitis, incipient Tuberculosis and Asthma. Numerous testimonials can be adduced from those who have been entirely relieved by the operation. His address is Mount Carmel, Halifax county, Va.

Near Yanceyville, Caswell co., N. C.
April, 1869.

This is to certify that I have been suffering for several years with chronic Bronchitis; attended with all the symptoms of incipient Consumption; during this period, I had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs. I also suffered greatly from enlarged Tonsils. I tried the usual remedies in such cases, but without satisfactory results. I finally concluded to try Dr Miles' treatment of cauterizing the air passages by injection. I remained under his treatment for six weeks' rejoice to say that I believe my lungs are entirely relieved. I will say that excision of the tonsils added greately to my relief. I most cheerfully recommend this treatment to all persons similarly afflicted.

PLANTATION BITTERS.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Wherever it is introduced it becomes a standard article—a medicinal staple. It is to-day the best and purest tonic, and the most popular medicine in the civilized world—be sure and get the genuine. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and Country Stores.
